INTRODUCTION

The following alphabetical list of marriages registered in the Presidency of Fort St. George, is intended as a companion to Canon Malden's List of Burials. It differs from that however in one particular. Canon Malden confined himself to the burials registered at St. Mary's; I have not done so. Records of marriages solemnised elsewhere are found in two directions. Firstly from the year 1782 reports of marriages at the out-garrisons seem to have been sent to the Chaplain of St. Mary's and are entered in the St. Mary's Register. Secondly from the year 1743 there are registers of the marriages solemnised by missionaries; these registers are now deposited with the Inspector-General of Registration. The present list of marriages has been compiled from the St. Mary's and Missionary registers.

Of the St. Mary's Registers little need be said. They form a contemporary record of the greatest value, although entries of marriages are only signed by the contracting parties and witnesses from the year 1779. They are sometimes confusing by reason of great irregularities in the spelling of names, irregularities which an alphabetical arrangement throws into unnaturally high relief; but this is a defect of small practical consequence.

The Missionary registers are unfortunately more defective, although they offer certain special points of interest. They consist of two series—one apparently a nineteenth-century compilation of a series of older registers and the other a list of "Additions and Corrections" presumably compiled also in the nineteenth century in the office of the Diocesan Registrar from materials no longer extant. The first is arranged chronologically; the second according to churches. These documents seem to have been written by clerks unacquainted with foreign and other names, which often appear in an exceedingly corrupt form, and it is frequently impossible to decide whether the corruption is original or merely the transcriber's error. The only corrections I have ventured on (saving occasional additions in square brackets) are insignificant changes such as "Antonia" for "Antonio" and the like. Such duplicate entries as appear are pointed out in foot-notes, in case of discrepancies between the two entries.

The Missionaries' Register (as opposed to the List of Corrections which does not show the names of the officiants) contains records of marriages solemnised by the following among other persons:—

J. P. FABRICIUS at Pulicat (1743-64 and 1788), at Vepery (1753-77), at Vellore (1765-74), at Chingleput (1774-87), and at Ambur (1776-88);

GERICKE at Cuddalore (1768-79 and 1787-91), at Vellore (1770-71, 1775, 1786, 1790-98), at Devikottai (1776-78), at Chingleput (1779 and 1781), at Vepery (1788-1800) and elsewhere;

KOHLHOF at Tanjore (1787-97); GRATIAEN at Negapatam (1795-99), PAEZOLD (or PIEZOLD) at Vepery (1795-1800); and HORST at Cuddalore (1792-98).

Most of the marriages recorded are probably of small interest, but it is impossible to say that any given marriage will never prove important in genealogical researches; so that it would have been impossible to justify the issue of a selection only from among these marriages. A more definite interest attaches to a certain number of entries. I will here transcribe by way of example the entry in the Missionaries' Register relating to Clive's marriage:—

—	Man's name.	Woman's name.	Rank.	Garrison or Station.
1753 February 18th.	Robert Clive.	Margaretha Maskelyne.	Captain.	Vepery.

Ceremony performed by J. P. Fabricius.

Witnesses.—Mr. Bouchier, Secy., Captain Maskelyne, Mrs. Bouchier, Mrs. Casamajor.

The ' Mr. Bouchier Secretary ' was Charles Bouchier, destined himself to rise to the Presidency of Fort St. George. Other entries furnish information lacking elsewhere, such as the maiden name of Bowerbank Dent's second wife (see Cotton's List, page 27).

It would be out of place here to enter upon a discussion of the general points of interest which the present list raises; but I may be permitted to indicate the most important. In the first place there is the very large number of marriages between European men and Indian or quasi-Indian women, the latter being in very many cases (as the missionaries gravely record) "Romans." This is of course not surprising; it is merely the persistence of the phenomenon which vexed the hearts of the ecclesiastical authorities at Fort St. George in the seventeenth century. In the second place, there is revealed by the evidence of names a remarkable mixture of nationalities among the European population. This is accounted for by the considerable Dutch and French settlements on the Coast, and by the rapidly increasing importance of Madras in the second half of the eighteenth century, which attracted thither all who were ambitious of bettering their position. This tendency was evidently strengthened also by the fact that all the foreign settlements in the eighteenth century (with the exception of Tranquebar) underwent British occupation and received British garrisons, members of which frequently married. The diversity of the European population, however, which probably reached its maximum between 1780 and 1800, declined thereafter almost as quickly as it had sprung up.

The entries taken from the Missionaries' Registers are indicated by italics, and where no place is mentioned Madras is to be understood.
